Quiz: A baker's dozen matching questions

How about something fluffy? Just for your fun, I've constructed a (not all that) challenging matching quiz game. Match the right answers to the questions. You decide if you've done it correctly or ask your spouse or friends. Some are easy to Google. Some are impossible and what's the fun in that anyway. Try not to Google. And you get a reward if you get them all right.

Your prize is that – if you decide you've got these questions correctly matched to their answers – you can substitute any one square on the Adult Summer Reading Card you choose with "I got 100% on the library column quiz." Add the date and it becomes another square complete, prizes to be awarded in August. (Copies of the Adult Summer Reading Card are available in the library lobby, in the newsletter that came in your mail if you've still got it or even if you don't, and on the library's Facebook site.)

Here we go! First the questions and then below are the answers you can choose from. No answer is used more than once (basically). Quotation marks are left off on purpose.

- 1) Mirror, mirror on the wall.
- 2) How much longer are all late penalties waived?
- 3) Who is the only person in the library's newsletter column Go Ask Alice who ever asks a question?
- 4) Call me Ishmael.
- 5) Can I bring my little kids into the Children's Wing yet?
- 6) The only people for me are the mad ones, the ones who are mad to live, mad to talk, mad to be saved, desirous of everything at the same time, the ones who never yawn or say a commonplace thing, but burn, burn, burn like fabulous yellow roman candles exploding like spiders across the stars.
- 7) There is no place like home. We ought to know. (Last part not in the original work.)
- 8) Can I come in and sit on your nice cushy chairs and read all day to escape my ordinary life yet?
- 9) Terror made me cruel. (Could be challenging but then process of elimination . . .)
- 10) Can I come into the library and hang out without a mask yet?
- 11) It was a bright cold day in April and the clocks were turning 13.

- 12) It sounds plausible enough tonight but wait until tomorrow. Wait for the common sense of the morning.
- 13) Do you guys still love me because it's been a while since we've spent real time with each other?

Answers: No. No. No. Yes, forever and always. Snow White. Moby Dick. On the Road. Wuthering Heights. Better bring back the Pandemic Collection because ordinary fines are now in place. Jane Eyre. 1984. The Wizard of Oz. Jive Talker. The Time Machine. (Yes, I included an extra answer just to mess with you.)

Don't forget that we have a guest author Saturday, July 25. Daniel Trinklein will discuss his book about growing up in Frankenmuth, An Age of Brotherhood, from 3 – 5 p.m. outside in Churchgrove Park. Bring your own chair.

The Library really is always here for you!
